

Lies, Half-Truths and Manipulations:
A Hathor Planetary Message Through Tom Kenyon

We wish to speak with you about a dangerous and treacherous passage that you are now entering. We spoke to this in our last communication when we discussed Chaotic Nodes.

>From our perspective you are getting closer to the manifestation of such chaos.

There are several reasons for this, which we wish to explore. But first we wish to affirm to you our belief in the sovereignty of human consciousness. We believe that you can, as individuals and as a collective, change your destinies, even as they unfold before you.

Therefore this message is not one of doom, but a call to presence and spiritual mastery.

As we view it, the H1N1 Virus, commonly called the "swine flu" has been genetically engineered and created. It is not a natural mutation. It is a conscious attempt by the hidden forces behind your governments to control and manipulate you. It is a social experiment, with dire consequences if they succeed.

The lies, half-truths and manipulations of information concerning this virus are very convoluted. But whatever the outcome, it is clear to us that this was initiated by human consciousness.

And it is also clear to us that it can only be undone by human consciousness. Fear of survival is one of the greatest tactics used to manipulate, and these dark forces shall use every means at their disposal to ensure that fear increases over the next several months (much less years).

As spiritual masters, your task is to transcend this collective mind control and find your own personal pathway through the chaos that will ensue. There are no specific guidelines on how to manage this. It is up to you and your own capacity for discernment. From our perspective, it will appear as if a rift is torn through the very fabric of your social consciousness.

There are those who will side with fear and insist that radical actions be taken including, but certainly not limited to, inoculations. Each of you must make your own decisions regarding this, for you are the ones living in bodies, and it is you who would be most affected.

But we must say to you, from our perspective, that we view these inoculations to be highly suspicious. They are contaminated. They will not protect. They will, in fact, damage the health of many, and they contain crude mind control devices, formulated from a scientific field in its infancy called "nano technology."

Again we cannot, and will not, advise you as to what you should or should not do in this situation. It is your sovereign choice. We are only reporting to you what we see and how we view the situation.

Your economic problems are not over. Some elements of your economy have been stabilized by furtive actions made behind the closed doors of those who hold the reins of economic power. But the system is riddled with time bombs and the stress of increasing economic distress will add to the chaos.

There are many other elements that will escalate as you approach what we have identified as chaotic nodes. But the main purpose of this communication is to present a pathway through the treacherous and dangerous transition that is now upon you.

These are not times for the weak-hearted. These are times that call upon your greatest reserves of courage, insight, and intuition.

Our words are intended for those who sense the truth of the hour. If what we say to you seems too far-fetched for your imagination, then there is no reason to continue reading.

Our words are intended for those of you who know that the hour has come, that the need for true mastery has arrived, and despite whatever fears may dwell within your minds and hearts, you know that courage will rise within you, for all life depends upon your choices.

As the fear increases through collective mind control, it is vital, indeed mandatory, that you transcend this; that you bypass the misinformation corridors that will be open to you everywhere you turn through the media, through social pressure, through possible governmental interactions and interventions.

We have spoken in many previous communications about various means to accomplish this. We would refer you to previous messages about "Ecstasy and the Heart," the "Holon of Balance" and especially the "Holon of Ascension." See links below for these pages.)

But these are techniques, inner technologies for the mind. They can and will assist you to transcend the mind control. But there are simpler methods we now wish to discuss. They are aspects of your very nature.

This "secret of secrets" is quite simply that you are creator beings (both human and divine). This knowledge, as to your nature, has been purposefully hidden from you by your religions and some of your philosophies.

These secrets are, of course, forbidden fruits, for were you to partake of them you would gain knowledge of your own divinity, even as you live in materiality. You would gain the knowledge that you are creating your future in this very moment and in every moment of your life: through your thoughts and your feelings, and by what you choose to think and feel about yourself and each other.

The "secret of secrets" frees you from the imprisonment of human limitation. It frees you from the constraints of your time, place and circumstance. It does this by opening the doorway of your own mind, freeing it from the mental imprisonment projected onto you by those forces which would contain and manipulate human destiny, for their own selfish ends.

The "Secret of Secrets" has four aspects.

One is your ability to attain spiritual insight, or vision, i.e. to see through the lies that are being projected onto you. And to see the "right path," even in the greatest darkness.

Two is your ability to feel. This is the core of the secrets. It is your greatest treasure, although it is also your greatest quandary. Those who wish to control and manipulate you know that freezing, or paralyzing, your ability to feel anything but the lower emotional spectrum will serve their end.

The third aspect is your ability to speak your truth. For many of you the coming times will demand that you speak your truth clearly, even when it is diametrically opposed to those around you.

And the fourth aspect is your ability to take action. These four aspects are rooted together and are the source of your freedom.

Within the nature of your heart is your capacity to feel and this is the deepest secret of all. For this allows you to change your vibratory field and this is the key to transcending collective mind control.

Although it sounds ridiculously simplistic, the essential truth of these secrets is what you call joy, appreciation and gratitude. Discover the things in your life, the situations, the people, your own thoughts and feelings, whatever gives you a reason for joy, appreciation and gratitude. Cultivate this like a precious garden in the midst of poisonous weeds, for then this garden will grow and give you sustenance.

Paradoxically on many levels (not just emotionally and psychologically but spiritually and even physically) when the power of joy, appreciation or gratitude reaches a certain amplitude or strength, it can literally cause manifestations of physical reality. And so even in the darkest moments, if you hold the spiritual mastery to transcend fear and cultivate joy, appreciation and gratitude, unexpected auspicious moments and situations will present themselves to you.

And, finally, we wish to be clear that these dark times can be your grandest hours. You hold within you the Secret of Secrets. Use them. Pass through the veil into the new world that awaits you. And may your path to this new dimension of being be strewn with auspicious blessings.

Observations from Tom

First of all let me say that the Hathors are, in no way, telling any of us what to do. They are simply sharing what they see in the current world situation.

Prophecies are strange animals. Their purpose is to alert us to possible future outcomes, but they are not written in stone. I sometimes use the metaphor of a nearly flat tire to describe what happens with prophecy.

If you are driving your car and someone brings to your attention that you have very low tire pressure and are on the verge of a flat tire, they are giving you a prophecy. Now if you were to respond to this the way some persons respond to prophecy, you might say "Oh, my God, I am going to have a flat tire and there is nothing I can do about it."

The truth is that you would then be limiting yourself to a very narrow view of possibility. Another more resourceful possibility would be to go get your freaking tire fixed (or at the very least re-inflated). Then you would have changed the prophecy.

Prophecies are, by their nature, meant to be altered. And the power to change a prophecy (no matter how dire it may be) is through our ability to make choices.

But first of all, we have to know that we even have the possibility to make choices.

This is the crux, I think, of what the Hathors are saying here. We have the ability (whether we realize it or not) to choose different vibratory fields than the collective might choose. And higher vibratory fields such as joy, appreciation and gratitude will lead us to different destinies (outcomes) than will fear, anger and hostility.

One of our great challenges is that we have been duped into believing that we have less ability to make choices for ourselves than we innately possess. The Hathors clearly level their criticism for this situation upon the shoulders of religion and some of our more self-limiting philosophies. These have robbed us of our inherent sovereignty by passing on our responsibility (spell that response-ability) onto some mysterious force beyond our control. The result has been a decrease in our response-ability that has led us, I believe, to our current cultural impasse.

For eons, we have followed our religious and political leaders to the edge of an abyss without questioning. If we continue on this path of blind subservience (without thinking and choosing for ourselves) then we will, I think, enter a deeply dark period of human history. The signs of this are everywhere, if we but open our eyes to see past the mass hypnotic spell that is being cast upon us.

Once again, the Hathors are reminding us to use the methods they have shared to transcend the limitations of our time, place and circumstance. These include Ecstasy and the Heart, the Holon of Balance and the Holon of Ascension.

I can honestly say from my own experience and from the reports of many persons around the world, these methods work. But we must use these inner technologies in order to gain their benefit.

In this message, however, the Hathors are also sharing a simpler way of stepping free of collective mind control. They call this the Secret of Secrets, and I personally found this section to be most interesting.

I wish I could honestly tell you that I have mastered these, but then I would not be speaking my truth. My truth is that I sometimes accomplish the attainment of joy, appreciation and gratitude and sometimes I fail at it miserably.

I have noticed, however, that when I am in the vibratory field of joy, appreciation and gratitude, I am somehow insulated from the swirling madness of our time. It is as if I am suspended above the conflicts that I was so engrossed in only moments before. And I have also noticed that if these feelings continue long enough, my external circumstances reflect this vibratory field. In other words, reasons to feel joy, appreciation and gratitude pop up all around me through such things as serendipity, and odd coincidences (i.e., synchronicities) that assist me.

When I succumb to the lower vibratory fields of fear, anger and hostility (often after watching or reading too much of the news, or simply indulging in my own bad habits of imagining worst case scenarios), I find myself immersed in a world of conflict. Serendipity and joy disappear, and the world that was so full of magic and possibility evaporates before me.

But I am clear that this is all my own creation.

I think the Hathors are sensing a deepening rift between those who choose to live upward in the vibratory states of joy, appreciation and gratitude and those who choose to live in the vibratory states of fear, anger, and hostility: the dominant emotional states currently being projected upon us by our mass media and political agendas.

It remains to be seen what will transpire around these issues in regard to our collective destiny, but those of us who are striving to live upward will, no doubt, find these to be interesting times.

Another way I personally think about all this is as a dance between the art of ascension (living upward) and that of descending (living downward). If I may extend the dance metaphor a bit further, I would say we are all pretty much caught up in the Great Mambo.

Although the Hathors didn't mention this directly, I think one of our greatest allies in these times will be a well-honed sense of humor. After all, from at least one perspective the whole thing is one big cosmic joke, the joke being on us. And certainly those of us who manage to keep our humor intact will have many opportunities to laugh at ourselves, the pathetic stupidity of our leaders and the great dance of Maya (the world of illusion) as she waltzes from the Old World into a new reality.
